BAD WEATHER DAY

In this essay I will talk about a bad day as well as the weather. I will start; a day begins from dawn when we see a beautiful day with the dazzling sun, when the sun's rays come through the window.

But a bad day begins when the day dawns raining for me so a bad day begins because that day you cannot do anything, nor go out when we sometimes face different problems, but that does not always happen when it is raining one day bad can be lived When the weather is sunny or cloudy or hazy in life, we don't know what day it will be wonderful or what day it will be a sad day.

For me a horrible day is to have problems where there are screaming fights and to be at home without being able to leave that is a bad day.

But also another bad day. It is when you get up and everything seems to be conspiring to get you out of your boxes. You start a bad breakfast, or when you go out and it starts to rain or there is too much heat that does not allow you to do things the way you intended.

Conclusión

Temperature, pressure, winds, rainfall and humidity. There are, in turn, determining factors that affect the climate. Among the most notable are: latitude, altitude and ocean currents these are some of the characteristics of the climate.

This is what defines the climate is defined as the average meteorological conditions that characterize a certain place. It is a synthesis of the atmospheric weather, obtained from long-term statistics of the meteorological elements in that place. be from a few decades.
