Pediatrician

A pediatrician is the doctor in charge of seeing for children, as well as in disease and health, few others know or know that the field of pediatrics covers from the birth of the baby to the age of 21, which will be when the body stops growing, although other anthologies say that until 18 years of age. And not only that, but the pediatrician also performs preventive medicine, applying for example vaccines to prevent diseases in children. they are trained to evaluate their patients. Although it is difficult to generalize what it does since there are many types of pediatricians who work in different places, and remember that among pediatricians there is also the relationship of parents who occupy an important place, and pediatricians are responsible for answering the concerns of these same, and to tell or speak to them about what happens to their children.

Perhaps we could say that the work of pediatricians is not easy, because as any health personnel have their difficulties, perhaps from dealing with small patients, we could perhaps compare pediatrics with geriatric's, for dealing with patients who perhaps sometimes they won't want to be touched. As mentioned above, a pediatrician can be in different areas, for example they could work in a hospital or present their services in private offices, but in the end the goal is the same, to maintain and promote the health of the child, and to guide the parents.

Perhaps the most beautiful part of their work is the fact that they deal with children, you have to have a lot of patience, because it requires it since there are every type of child and parents, in addition to which the doctor would have to like children since that way It works better, because if they do what they like they will do it in a better way.

We conclude that pediatricians have, like all health personnel, a very important job, because they treat neonates, and that is how they detect diseases at an early stage and thus treat them on time.
