“signo y symptoms”

Frontera Comalapa, Chiapas a 04 de agosto del 2020

What is a symptom?

- a symptom is the subjective or objective reference that a patient gives of the perception that he recognizes as abnormal or caused by a disease state or disease.

examples of symptoms are headache, chronic tiredness,
nausea, and pain

What is a sign?

- are the objective manifestations, clinically reliable, and observed on medical examination, that is, on the physical examination of the patient

Vital signs are measurements of the body's most basic functions — body temperature, rate of respiration (breathing), pulse rate, and blood pressure

Why people usually confuse signs and symptoms?

- Sometimes signs indicate symptoms like how a crying baby may be a hungry baby, is your daughter scratching her arm (signo)?
- She must feel itchy (symptom) people vomit (signo) when they are feling nauseated (symptom).
