GIVING DIRECTIONS

On this occasion we see learning and giving a Good indication to a hospital, it may be something strange or even insignificant but we can have Good communication to give us a better expresión of the correct prepositions and thus give Good use to them and also a better quality for help people and so Work is easier fo us

As is always the case ising words to “express yourself with another person or how your patient can be either as this person is positioned, whether it is right to left or any other position, also to exprely communicate in a hospital with the person

Some of the examples of the expressions would be, such as when a person tedizes that where they have their wounded brother, in which condition he is and how he is in health

How about a Young man, what happens is that my husband has been hospitalized for 3 hours and I need to know what abitaccion his name is? His name is yeferson

That; s right, lady your husband is spotted down the hall, 2 on the right side room 6 follow your instructions

Follow your directions first of all follow the straight hallway to the turn to your right there 7 contractions each one has the number with its corresponding assignment depending on which área it is so look if it is room number 6 and it Will be there where is your husband is it is on the first floor since the hospital has 3 floors so check where it is and guide by the number assignment

She tends to have another option to get to were her husband is and it is through the emergency door since they Will ask for his name and other requirements, there are more nurses who can tell him where he is and it is more accesible so that you can get better

english is very important because, through tis language, we can comunicate in different work áreas, knowing how to structure the words used to communicate with someone in thee_ way
