

Subject

English IV

Carrera

General nursing

Teacher's name

Isaías Gómez Ballinas

Student's name

Clarita Del Carmen Lopez Trejo

Topic

Possessive Pronouns.

Fourth trimester

Pichucalco, Chiapas 17 de September 2020

Possessive pronouns

In this case the possessive pronoun is when it makes explicit the property, the closeness or the relationship between a grammatical person and a grammatical element. Likewise, possessive pronouns act independently and do not necessarily require the close presence of the noun they complement.

Singular

Plural

In the singular there is a possessive pronoun that is mine, my, mine, mine and that is where we can form a sentence since it is made up of the first person and there it is de-nouncing.

Since the form of a sentence will always add the s in the case of the plural, only apostrophes are added. The same happens with the "s" and in that case it is in its own name, it would be the same since it is a way of expressing itself through the objectives

Then write 8 examples.

1. - This is my pencil.

2. - Feel like you are in your

3. - Don't touch that slice of pizza, it's mine.

4.- I don't get involved with his because he gets angry.

5.- I have no memories of him

6.- What happened was our responsibility

7.- Your grandparents are lovely.

8.- I think those keys are mine.