The setting sun is reflected from the windows of the almshouse as brightly as from the rich man's abode; the snow melts before its door as early in the spring. I do not see but a quiet mind may live as contentedly there, and have as cheering thoughts, as in a palace. The town's poorest man to me often to live the most independent lives of any.
May be they are simply great enough to receive without misgiving. Most that are poor in the town, but it often happens that they are not above supporting themselves by dishonest means. Which should be more dishonourable. Cultivate poverty like a garden herb, like sage. Do not trouble yourself much to get new things, whether clothes or friends. Turn the old, return to them. Things do not change; we change. Sell your old, return to them. Buy again, I would practice poverty and keep your thoughts. However mean your life is, meet it and cheer it; do not shun it and call it hard. It is not so bad as you are. It looks poorer when you are richest. The fault-finder will find faults in paradise. Love your life, poor as it is. You may perhaps have some pleasant, thrilling, glorious hours even in a poorhouse.
