But when her jealous stepsisters recognized their old sash and beads. At that moment, bright, sparkling lights began floating and swirling around Cinderella. Next, the fairy Godmother turned Cinderella's torn dress into a beautiful gown. The king and the Grand Duke watched as the maidens walked forward to meet the prince. They danced every dance until the clock began to strike midnight. The Grand Duke would check every house in the Kingdom for a maiden whose foot fit the glass slipper. The grand duke put the slipper on Cinderella's foot. It fit perfectly. Cinderella married the prince and lived happily ever after.
