Introduction

Once upon a time there was an old carpenter named Geppeto, who lived in a small cabin in a forest near Florence. Geppeto, who did not have a family, spent many hours in his carpenter's workshop working with wood to entertain himself, as he felt very lonely. One fine day the old man took some pieces of wood from his workshop and worked on them, creating a nice toy, he called it Pinocchio, the old carpenter, while contemplating his creation, repeated to himself "with how good it turned out", what a pity it has no life, how I wish Pinocchio was a real boy, such was Geppeto's wish that a fairy who saw it decided to make it come true and bring the doll to life. Suddenly, Pinocchio said to Geppeto "hello father".

Climax

Pinocchio, aware of the effort his father had made for him to study, said to himself on the way to school, I have to study hard and saw ~~away on Pinocchio~~ a puppeteer like him, he went to dance with them, after a few seconds, Pinocchio observed that these dolls had no life, they moved by strings that the owner of the theater tightened, a few meters further on, Pinocchio met a somewhat deceitful cat who suggested that he earn more money if he boxed his coins in a place called the field of miracles.

The end / conclusion

After going to school, Pinocchio returned home. When he got home, he did not see Geppetto who had they did, they lit a fire so that the whale would open its mouth and they swam out in a hurry, as a reward for saving his father's life, the Blue Fairy turned Pinocchio into a real boy.
