

My grandmother's house is quite simple, it is still made of wood and sheets, as was the custom, on the outside is her garden with many medicinal plants, inside we will find a single room, since she and my grandfather live alone, they do not change their furniture, they have a glass table, a showcase that they call "carver" in which they have "collection" plates and glasses for many years, as well as photos stuck on the doors of said furniture, they have a television like the ones from before, too large and heavy, wooden tables and chairs, they have a well in the back, on one side they have a place called "batea" which is for washing their clothes, they have a complete bathroom and almost On one side they have a room made of wood which they use as a kitchen, but at the same time they have a "fogon" so that they can also cook with firewood from time to time, it is also possible It should be mentioned that they have a large water tank to store water, sixty percent of the house has a floor and the rest is made of soft earth.

ZIMRI ABRAHAM MORALES MONTES DE OCA