HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU

In this week's blog, we look at some birthday customs around the world.

Harry Baker, Perth, Australia
 It's my birthday next Wednesday. I'm going to be 10 years old. In my country, we always eat fairy bread on our birthdays. My mom's going to make me a huge plate of fairy bread. It's a snack. We make it with bread, butter, and colorful sugar called "hundreds and thousands."

Jim Dixon, Montego Bay, Jamaica
 I love birthdays! They're a lot of fun. Here in Jamaica, we have an old custom. We like to surprise people on their birthday. Guess what we do? We throw flour at our friends! It's my best friend's birthday tomorrow. I'm going to go to the store soon, I'm going to buy a lot of flour to throw at him.

Victoria Smith, London, UK
 My grandmother is going to be 100 years old in June. She's very excited because she's going to get a special letter from the Queen. The Queen sends a letter to every person who reaches 100. It's a tradition that makes people very happy.

Jiang Li, Beijing, China
 In my country, we celebrate birthdays with a special type of food. Noodles are a sign of a long life for us. This year, I'm going to make some "long life noodles" for all my friends. We're going to eat them together and have a great evening!

B. Read the questions. Write short answers.

1. Which two countries celebrate birthdays with food?
2. Why is Jim going to the store?
3. What three things do you need to make fairy bread?
4. What do noodles mean in China?
