Tell me about a mischief you did when you were a child

what did you did?

When I was a child, I remember a mischief I got myself into. I had a fascination with bugs, and one day, I decided to collect as many as I could. I carefully placed them in a shoebox, excited to create my own mini bug kingdom. However, things took a turn when I left the box unattended in my room, and the bugs escaped! Panic ensued as I realized they were crawling all over the place.

Was it a dangerous event?

It wasn't a dangerous event, but it definitely caused chaos

Did your parents scold you?

My parents scolded me for bringing bugs into the house and not properly securing them. It's why I learned to appreciate bugs from a distance after that.
