When I was a child; When I was 5 years old, my parents were talking with my uncles and I was left alone inside the house playing, but from one moment to the next I went over to the cabinet where the module was and I began to remove the buttons one by one from the module with a key, when my uncles left my parents came into the house and saw what I had done, at first they were worried because I might have hit myself with the keys, then they called my attention and told me that this was dangerous because I could to have hit and not to do it again
