Introducing Oneself

I am a person of average height, standing at around 1.60 meters, and I have a slim build. My eyes are a deep shade of brown, which often reflects my introverted personality. My hair is straight and tends to fall untidily across my forehead, partly because I am naturally disorganized and don't fuss much about grooming.

I am an introverted person by nature, which means I feel more comfortable in quiet environments and prefer spending time alone or with a small group of close friends. This introversion is reflected in my way of interacting with others and in my choice of activities, which often include reading, writing, or enjoying moments of solitude.
