The person I see is wearing a stylish outfit. They are donning a fitted, navy blue blazer over a crisp, white button-up shirt.

Their lower half is adorned with slim, black trousers that complement the blazer perfectly.

They have chosen to complete the ensemble with a pair of polished brown leather shoes.

Currently, they are standing near a large window, looking out at the bustling city street below. They seem to be engrossed in a conversation with a colleague, gesturing animatedly as they discuss what appears to be a project proposal.

Their attire exudes professionalism and confidence, reflecting their focused and determined demeanor.
