

UNIVERSIDAD DEL SURESTE

Escobar Cruz Margarita

Arreola Jiménez Eduardo Enrique

Licenciatura en Medicina Veterinaria

2A

Inglés

Tapachula, Chiapas

ENDANGERED FAUNA

GRIZZLY

The grizzly lives in forests and mountainous regions, it is estimated that there are very few of them and they are in danger of extinction.

The greatest threat of this species is poisoning, persecution,

BLACK RHINOCEROS

They live in Kenya and South Africa, there are very few of them, it is estimated that their population is 2000 individuals.

This species is in a critical state due to large amount of hunting in the area

PANDA

Living in China in forest of bamboo, They are currently in danger of extinction

The gradual disappearance of bamboo forest has caused this animal to be considered in danger of extinction

Bibliografía:

Libro curso de comprensión de lectura MVZ de Adriana chapou

<https://translate.google.com.mx/>