UNUSUAL HOMES

Mauricio Fidel Arrevillaga Hernández

THE INVERTED HOUSE

In Szymbark, Poland, there is a construction that breaks any architectural commandment. The Upside Down House -or the inverted house- was created by Daniel Czapiewski with the idea of illustrating the communist era and graphing the changes that took place today. As if everything was turned upside down.

THE HOUSE OF THE SHOE

In Hellam, a township in Pennsylvania, USA, a curious shoe-shaped building can be seen. In its original version, it was a real guesthouse with 3 bedrooms, two bathrooms, a kitchen and a living room for the local shoe magnate, Mahlon Haines. After his death, it functioned as an ice cream parlor and today it is a museum.

THE TRANSPARENT HOUSE

Japanese architect Sou Fujimoto built the "House N.A." in Tokyo. With a minimalist style, it lacks any kind of privacy. All the details of the house can be seen from the outside without much inconvenience. Only at night, a general curtain offers the possibility of some privacy in its 914 square meters.

THE SNAIL HOUSE

Near Mexico City, local architect Javier Senosiain built the Nautilus House. A snail-shaped piece that seeks to convey the feeling of a calm and relaxed marine habitat. Completed in 2007, its different colored crystals and organic furniture give the atmosphere the aura sought by its creator.

THE FLINTSTONES HOUSE

Inspired by the classic '60s animated series, Malibu also features a rocky house that emulates the Flintstones' residence. The enormous property, which is surrounded by more than 22 hectares, consists of a single floor. It has one bedroom, two bathrooms, a large fireplace and glass windows that allow a view of the outside. Television entrepreneur Dick Clark appraised his home at $3.5 million.
