

Me and Joe went for a walk one weekend in the afternoon out of nowhere he saw a friend of his whose name was Paty, she was very pretty when suddenly we saw some puppies and they played with dogs. I also played with them for a while. They and after that we felt tired and went to get something to drink at the time of paying, she went ahead and paid when it started to get dark, they went home while I still stayed appreciating the beautiful night which was very illuminated by some beautiful giant stars which shone brightly, after that I went home and took a long nap...