Once upon a time there was a young man named Pablo who lived in a town with few resources. He lived with his sister Isabella and his sister was about to turn 15.

They got to work to throw a 15th birthday party for his sister, which they turned to their neighbors to raise funds for the 15th birthday.

Unfortunately, thanks to the fact that no neighbors wanted to cooperate in raising funds, all the plans they had had to be cancelled. But some time later, upon discovering that thanks to one of their neighbors, no one gave any money, they decided to postpone the 15 years. After staying silent and not saying anything about who the neighbor was, they had to hang an anonymous sign which they thought would help them solve the fundraising problem. Time passed and the brothers managed to make it 15 years old. They hired a DJ from their town who had little music equipment. During the party during the dance, the devices occur to break down and in order not to get agitated they decided to continue the party with a small horn.
