Last weekend was a super excellent day, because I played a basketball final where my sisters accompanied me, they were wondering, will they win the game? But yes... we won first place, after playing we enjoyed a celebration with all the members of the team, on Sunday morning I accompanied my friend Pedro to buy some things for his mother's altar, we ate roast beef, Perla invited us to make her birthday cake in the afternoon, but we couldn't attend, because Pedro and Sofia had a very important online class.

Pedro asked us if we bought something for dinner? Okay, let's get to work and we'll all have dinner together, and that's how my weekend was, it was very nice because friends are very important in life.
