The flag of Argentina is a symbol of the ideology of freedom with which the homeland was born, embodied in the values of Manuel Belgrano and our heroes. The light blue and white colors represent the sky, the Virgin and the mother country. The flag was created by Manuel Belgrano on February 27, 1812, during the War of Independence.

The Republic of Argentina is a country belonging to South America, whose capital is Buenos Aires.

Football arrived in Argentina at the end of the nineteenth century, brought by British immigrants. The first Argentine football club, Club Atlético Buenos Aires, was founded in 1867. Football is considered a cultural expression in Argentina. The Argentine national football team has won a total of 15 international championships, including the World Cup in 1978 and 1986. The top scorer in the history of Argentine football is Lionel Messi, who has surpassed Gabriel Batistuta's record and has scored more than 700 goals in his career.
