

Investigation of rare, uncommon houses

Velazquez Lopez Jolissa.

University of the southeast.

Ing. Arreola Jimenez Eduardo Enrique.

Veterinary medicine and husbandry.

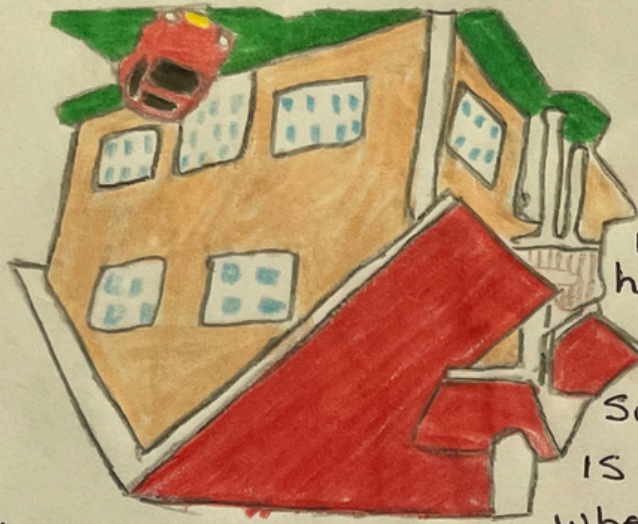

To Tapachula Chiapas, January 23, 2025.

House located in Nagualpan, Mexico in the shape of a snail designed by the architect Javier Sinosaí the house has colorful and wavy interiors integrated. Perfectly nature, the windows of the house are streaks of colored stained glass windows allows natural light to create a spectacle of colors inside, the house inside is full of plants the house is furnished like any house.

The house is located in Chihuahua and is made of bricks. It has two floors to go up, it has a spiral staircase, it has stairs and on the outside it is yellow, the house is inhabited and has 8 rooms, 3 bathrooms, a kitchen and its living room.

The house is eighteen tons of iron, cementation of three columns, hicopor wall has a 1.5 ton car also upside down of red color that is supported by eight anchors the house is two floors, the first thing you see when entering a bathroom with tub the blue wall, it has a child's room and the walls are red and main room, with a pool table, when passing through the stair is the kitchen and the living room and its white wall all things are upside down the house on the outside is color being, the columns, windows and door of white color, red roof.

The teapot house resembles a giant teapot on the outside it is painted white on the inside it is blue and the red one usually stands out on the windows on the ceiling has a large spout and a lid that simulates the parts of the teapot.

BIBLIOGRAPHY

<https://www.infobae.com/economia/real-estate/2017/03/17/las-8-casas-mas-raras-y-extra-va-gantes-del-mundo/?outputType=amp-type>