"My sister and I"

This story will talk about a past experience in my life, an event that had a significant impact on my life, even though it happened a long time ago.

In 2018, when I was eleven years old, I loved playing with my little sister. One day, we were playing tag, and she ran one way while I ran the other. We were extremely happy, laughing and playing, when suddenly she fell into boiling water, and everything changed from laughter to tears.

I didn't know what to do. My mom took her to the doctor, and I didn't know anything. I started doing my homework when my mom arrived and began scolding me. My sister was in critical condition, with severe burns on her leg. I was scared and didn't know how to control my fear.

After a while, my mom left the house and went to see my sister. When she arrived, my sister was more calm. They brought her home, and I remember that it was a sunny day that suddenly started raining. The sun was shining, but it was also raining. My sister was calm for a moment, but then she started crying loudly, scaring me terribly. I didn't know what to give her, and my mom wasn't there. When she returned, my sister's pain worsened.

With time, the pain subsided, and my sister started feeling better. However, she was left with a lot of fear and insecurity, as she couldn't wear skirts due to the scar. Eventually, time passed, and she began to overcome her fear.

This experience affected me for a long time, as I believed it was my fault and that my sister couldn't wear dresses because of me. The worst part was that she developed insecurity, never wearing skirts or dresses. Sometimes, others would joke that I had pushed her into the water, but they didn't realize that those jokes made me feel even more guilty.
