INTRODUCTION

---

This story is about a beautiful vacation at sea with my friend Esmeralda, who during the holidays happened to us several pleasant events mainly watching the sunrise and sunset. Seeing how the sun rises and sets on the edge of the more, was the best.

And the turtles being free in the sea uff one of the most wonderful things in the world.

TURTLES IN THE WILD

At sea life is tastier

One day I was on vacation with my friend. Esmeralda went down to the beach at half past six because she had gotten up very early and had not been able to go back to sleep. It was a beautiful morning. The sun was rising in the sky and the waves were breaking on the shore. Some joggers were running up and down the beach and some fishermen had just returned from a night of fishing. It looked absolutely beautiful. Esmeralda decided to go for a run, while she was running she saw a turtle in the middle of her path, then she decided to stop to take the turtle to the sea, at the moment she was taking the turtle to the sea, a man spoke to her telling her to give him the turtle, that he was in charge of raising them and releasing them as soon as they could survive, At that she gave it to him and waited for all the turtles to be released, it was amazing and unique. finishing seeing how incredible turtles are, Esmeralda returned to the hotel, took a bath, had some pancakes with strawberries, which is her favorite.
