MY STORY

Yesterday, while I was walking through the park with my friend Juan, we saw something strange. We were enjoying the sunshine and listening to music when suddenly, he stopped and looked around but didn't see anything unusual. However, the noise kept going.

As we slowly walked toward the sound, we saw a man who was running along the path. The man looked very nervous, curious, Juan decided to follow him, but suddenly, the man disappeared behind some trees. Juan stood there, staring at the spot where the man had vanished. At that moment, a lady walking her dog approached and asked if he had seen anything strange. Juan told her what had happened, but the lady just smiled and said it was probably just a misunderstanding. However my friend couldn't stop thinking about the mysterious man and what was going on.
