

THE TRAVELER SOUP

For once upon a time there was a hungry Traveler who walked by a long road the sun was shining in the blue sky and the traveler had an empty stomach and low spirits he reached a small village and decided to ask for some food at one of the houses. The Traveler knocked on the door of a modest house and was greeted by an old old woman who lived there he explained his situation and asked for something to eat the elderly woman was poor and had little to offer but she was a kind woman she had an idea and told the traveler that she had a big stone and maybe they could make stone soup to.

Share the traveler was surprised by the suggestion but accepted with gratitude the elderly woman handed him the stone and he prepared to start he asked for a large pot water and firewood he placed the stone in the pot with water and set it to boil over the fire the villagers began to gather around curious to see what the man was doing with a simple stone. The Traveler with a smile explained that he was making special stone soup but that it would be even better if he had some additional ingredients one of the villagers felt compassionate and hurried to bring carrots another brought potatoes and someone else brought onions and tomatoes soon the pot contained a delicious soup with the stone and all the other ingredients provided by the people who joined in the aroma was delightful and attracted more neighbors. Finally everyone gathered to share the soup.

Ada Luceli Ruiz Gordillo.