A month ago i started feling discomfort on one side of my stomach after four weeks i still felt discomfort, so i told my mom about it and she said “you should go see a doctor” the next day i went to the doctor he checked me out said, “it’s your gallbladder” “you need to have surgery to remove it”.

I returned home and told me. “I need to have surgery because it’s my gallbladder”. Then my mother said, “oh, daughter, to have that surgery for your health”.

I went to my room and starled rescarching the topic the doctor had told me about on social media, and I realiced that sacial medio isn’t very useful for gathering information on a topic. social media aluus people from defferent parts of the world to instantly connect, shere ideal, or collaborate.
