Pollution is one of the biggest problems in the world today. Many cities have dirty air because of cars, factories, and trash. People should recycle more and must avoid throwing garbage on the streets or in rivers. If we reduce pollution the environment will improve and many diseases related to dirty air will decrease.

If governments create stricter environmental laws companies will have to use cleaner technology. Also if people use public transport or bikes instead of cars, pollution will go down a lot.

In my opinion, everyone has a responsibility to take care of the planet. I believe that small actions like saving water planting trees, and not wasting energy can help protect nature. Pollution affects animals and humans alike so we must act now before it is too late.
